

NEW!

Infection Prevention:
Influenza and Novel H1N1
THE FLU & YOU
What You NEED to Know

Friday, Oct. 23rd at 6:30pm – 8:30pm
at the New York Marriott Marquis in Times Square, NYC
(additional dates: Nov. 6th and Nov. 20th)

Presented by Mei Kong, RN, MSN, ScD
a leading expert in safety and health care

New York College of Health Professions is pleased to present this important and informative 2 hour Infection Prevention workshop on Influenza and Novel H1N1.

With flu season upon us, this workshop is a must for all health care professionals and anyone wanting to know more about this unique health care challenge, and what you can do for your patients, your family, your community and yourself. Everyone is talking about it...learn the facts!

This workshop will provide an historical overview of the Flu as well as an update on information allowing you to understand your options and prepare for the worst case, as well as most likely scenarios.

Workshop fee is $79.00 (which you may get pre-approved from your employer). Any attendee who will teach and communicate this vital message to others will be entitled to a 20% discount (or $63.20). All participants will receive a Certificate of Completion for 2 CE contact hours. Book early to reserve your seat for one of the most interesting and important workshops of the year!

For more information and to register, please contact Amy Kolasky, Administrative Manager, Continuing Education at (800) 922-7337 or akolasky@nycollege.edu.

Mei Kong is an Adjunct Faculty member at New York College of Health Professions, as well as the Senior Director, Patient Safety at New York City Health and Hospitals Corporation.

New York College of Health Professions is an approved provider of continuing nursing education by the New York State Nurses Association, an accredited approver by the American Nurses Credentialing Center's Commission on Accreditation.

It has been assigned code 74ENSY-PRV-07-501.

Click here to download the registration form!